PERSONAL FALL PROTECTION TAILORED FOR CONSTRUCTION SITES

Personal fall protection is used when assembling collective fall protection or when no other suitable fall protection solution is available. A personal fall protection system consists of an anchoring device, a full body harness and a coupling system with a fall damping function.

We have tailored kits that are designed for different situations in the construction project, for example for work on roofs, slabs or from a mobile platform. You can also put together your own solution from our range of individual products.

All parts of our personal fall protection are designed for the construction industry, are of high quality and comply with the latest updated EU regulations on personal fall protection equipment.

In addition to high quality products, knowledge and routines are important for the overall function. SafetyRespect offers a comprehensive education package for different needs, as well as solutions for control and maintenance of the systems.

SAFETYRESPECT – WE SAVE LIVES

With SafetyRespect, you get more than fall protection products – you get an expert partner who stands by your side. We help you take control of every step of the fall protection process. We make it easy for you by offering a full range of products and services, all designed for the construction industry.
